NEW WEBSITE AIMS TO SOLVE PROBLEM SURROUNDING FINDING DREAM CAREER

CareerBear.com, a new website, is the first in Canada to help people learn more about their dream careers and take steps to become what they want to be.

Many of us like to daydream — usually while at our current job — about other careers. Maybe you have thought about becoming a chef, or a plumber or a pilot.

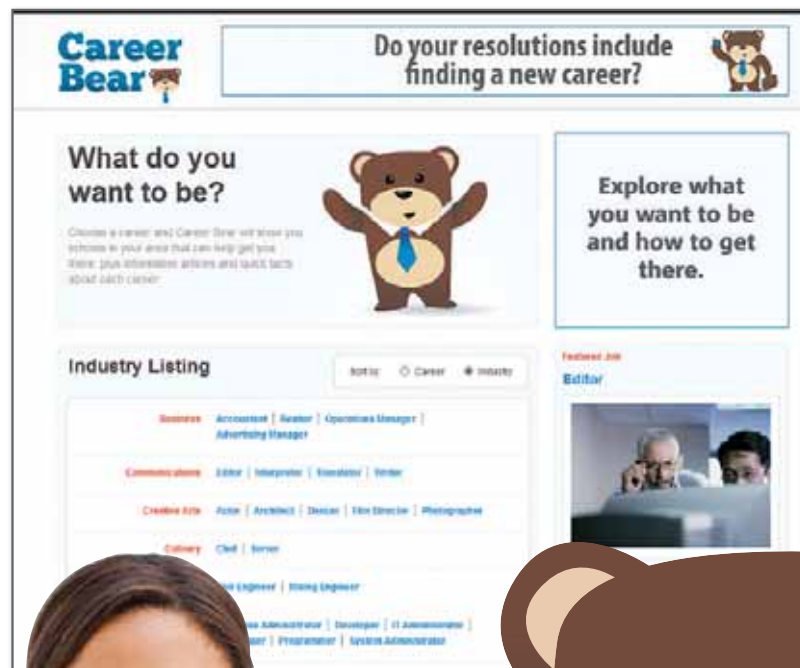

Many of these careers and others are often shrouded in mystery. For example, most people don't know how much a flight attendant makes, or what kind of training is required to become a paralegal. And even if you search around online, it's unclear from most websites how to take it to the next step if you want to pursue that career.

CareerBear.com aims to solve this problem. First, you select a career — any of those mentioned above, plus more in the fields of skilled trades, IT, creative arts, business, etc. Then the site provides you not just with quick facts and articles about how to make your move, but also suggests programs and schools in your area.

For example, let's say you wanted to learn more about becoming a pharmacy assistant. The site's "quick facts" tell you that employment prospects are good and articles let you know more about the job and some of the required skills you may not have guessed.

In addition, CareerBear.com automatically detects your location and suggests relevant training opportunities closest to your city.

If you have ever thought about changing careers or want to learn more about a different path, the site is definitely worth checking out.

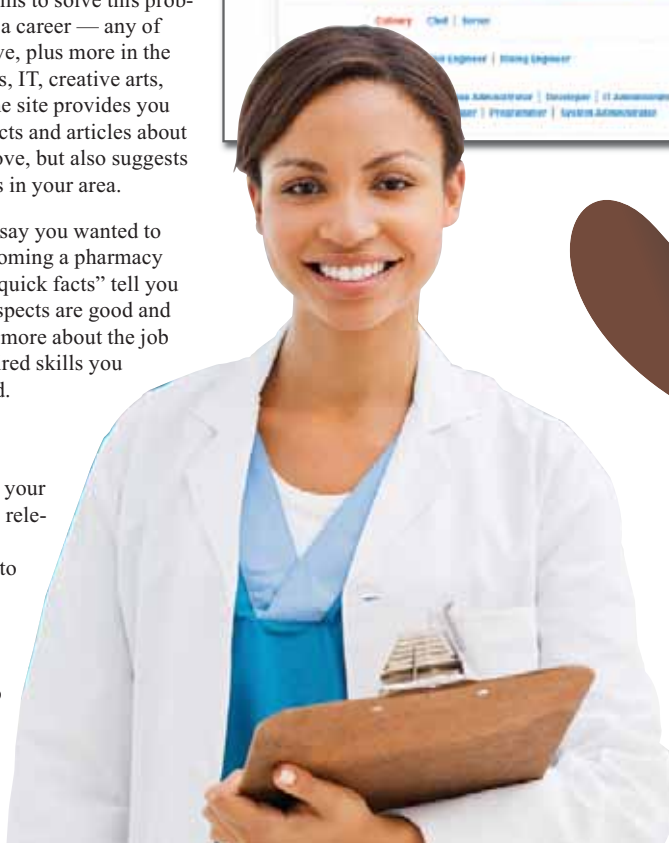

MANY CHOICES

CareerBear.com features more than 40 different careers, sorted either by name or by industry.

The site lists programs closest to major cities Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Halifax.

The site is totally free to use, supported by advertising.

Nova Scotia poorer due to debt: AG

► Jacques Lapointe presents his first consolidated financial report to legislature
► NDP MLA pushes back on his findings

ALEX BOUTILIER
@METRONEWS.CA

Is it right for us to be demanding services future generations will have to pay for?

That question is at the heart of a report presented by auditor general Jacques Lapointe to the Nova Scotia legislature's law amendments committee on Wednesday.

Lapointe's office presented its first stand-alone report on the province's finances through the lens of the effect of a $13-billion debt on Nova Scotia's future financial health.

"At present, about nine per cent of revenue received by Nova Scotia (approximately $860 million) is needed to pay interest on loans obtained to pay for services delivered in the past," reads Lapointe's introductory remarks. "In effect, we are all poorer today because of government spending in the past."

Nova Scotia's net debt has hovered around $12 billion since 2001. In 2011, the net debt came in at $12.8 billion. Lapointe emphasized

What debt costs

In Nova Scotia, the percentage of total government revenue spent on paying interest on the provincial debt has been on the decline over the past five years.

- 2007: 11.6 per cent ($959 million)
- 2008: 10.3 per cent ($954 million)
- 2009: 9.7 per cent ($887 million)
- 2010: 9.2 per cent ($850 million)
- 2011: 8.7 per cent ($861 million)

the focus on the long-term effects of debt was not to indict any one government or party, but to draw attention to the larger issue.

"One of the things I wanted to do with the commentary is to generate dialogue ... and to get people thinking and talking about that issue in a slightly different way, and to not accept the way things have always been," Lapointe told reporters.

Over the past five years, the debt attributed to every man, woman and child in Nova Scotia has increased from $13,205 to $13,568.

The bottom line: For every dollar the provincial government collects in revenue, nine cents go to paying off past borrowing.

Epstein to auditor: Who asked you?

ALEX BOUTILIER
@METRONEWS.CA

Halifax-Chebucto MLA Howard Epstein thinks the auditor general overstepped his bounds in offering economic and policy advice to government.

Epstein, the ranking NDP member at Wednesday's public-accounts meeting, offered Jacques Lapointe a 35-minute lecture on a wide array of topics, from the causes of the world economic crisis to what's likely to happen with interest rates.

At issue was a report delivered to the committee on the province's financial situation on Wednesday, where Lapointe offered commentary on the challenges presented by long-term provincial debt.

"I think the auditor general strayed away from his original function of looking at the books of the province in order to give us auditing advice and moved himself really into the thick of economics and policy and political questions," Epstein said outside the committee. "(Lapointe) is not an economist and really tried to give us economic advice, and that was inappropriate."

Finance Minister Graham Steele was slightly more diplomatic in his reaction to the report.

Steele said the government's commitment is not to pay off the $12.8-billion debt, but rather to see a steady decrease in the debt-to-GDP ratio, which he called a more reasonable measure of financial health.

Coffee shop serves up crime tips

► Dalhousie and Halifax Regional Police split cost of $2,000 for 26,000 coffee sleeves with messages

JENNIFER TAPLIN
@METRONEWS.CA

How about cream, sugar and a crime-prevention message with your coffee?

Halifax Regional Police, Dalhousie University and Coburg Coffee in downtown Halifax launched a pilot project Wednesday, using coffee-cup sleeves to deliver police warnings.

"I've been challenged with new and innovative ways to get crime-prevention messages out to the public" said Supt. Don Spicer, HRM public-safety officer. "We find brochures have simply become white noise and they get very little attention."

Police issue warnings on Twitter, Facebook and YouTube, but something else was needed.

The idea sprang from the desire to get out warnings to young women in light of several sleep-

- Vehicle thefts.

watcher incidents in the university area and other break-and-enters, many of which were accommodated by unlocked doors and windows.

"(In) a lot of the crime that happens in Halifax, young people are the victims, so we're taking it to the people who are most likely to be victimized," Spicer said.

A similar coffee-sleeve campaign was done in Eugene, Ore., and Spicer thought it would work effectively here, too.

It's a pilot project that will last as long as the sleeves do. Prevention programs are always hard to evaluate, but Spicer said they'll look at crime statistics before and after to see if the program made a dent. If successful, Spicer said they'll look at expanding it to other coffee shops.

Kelly Irvine, owner of Coburg Coffee, said she thinks her customers will likely notice new sleeves, at least at first, since there hasn't been a message on them before.

"There's a great big 'Did you know?' on the top of it, so hopefully people will take notice and be interested in it."

Warrant out for robbery suspect

A Canada-wide warrant has been issued for a 34-year-old man wanted for two bank robberies in HRM on Tuesday.

Police say Timothy Edward Walsh is charged with two counts of robbery, possession of a concealed weapon, possession of a weapon dangerous to the public and one count of theft and possession over $5,000.

The first holdup was at Scotiabank on Lacewood Drive in Clayton Park, followed by a second robbery at the TD Bank on Portland Street in Dartmouth.

Police say Walsh shouldn't be approached and anyone with information on his whereabouts should contact police or Crime Stoppers. ● METRO

Community speaks out against boundary change

► African Nova Scotian riding had 7,680 eligible voters in 2009 election

@METRONEWS.CA

The Preston community is voicing its opposition to proposed changes to their provincial electoral boundary.

"The time has come that we have to stop letting people tell us what to do and how we should do it," said Spencer Colley, president of the East Preston Ratepayers Community Development Association, at a press conference Wednesday.

A recommendation that would remove the protected status of the Preston riding as well as three Acadian ridings is being considered by the Provincial Boundaries Commission in their review. An amendment to the terms of reference for the commission suggest each constituency be within 25 per cent of the average.

"It's important to us because we've had black representation for our community going back to before I was born, municipally, and two in provincial elections as well," Colley said.

► Avery Crawley, left, and Spencer Colley from the East Preston Ratepayers Community Development Association speak at a press conference on Wednesday.

"There may not be the tax base that's coming out of other communities, but that shouldn't be an answer, and we shouldn't have to worry about that."

SPENCER COLLEY, PRESIDENT OF THE EAST PRESTON RATEPAYERS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

"They're making the boundaries much broader and lessening our chance to get black representation to represent us in government."

Colley said it's possible

the matter could go to court, but as of Wednesday the group hadn't spoken directly to Preston MLA Keith Colwell or anyone else in the provincial government.

"We need to be heard, not spoken to, and need people to come to us. This is the beginning of what we're doing with the issue and from here we'll have more to say," Colley said.

He was 80.

Rev. Paul Abbass, a spokesman for the diocese, says Campbell had serious health problems

Campbell was ordained as a priest in the archdiocese of Halifax in 1956 and was appointed bishop of the diocese of Antigonish in 1986.

He stepped down as bishop of the diocese in 2002.

Abbass says funeral details have not been finalized, but the service will be held at St. Ninian Cathedral in Antigonish.

'Need to see it all': Auditor

Nova Scotia's auditor general recommends the province report all revenues from government agencies in the budget.

In a report released Wednesday, auditor general Jacques Lapointe recommends the government provide revenue estimates for its agencies — such as school boards and district health authorities — as well as the general revenue fund.

"If you want to see, in one place, how much all of the parts of government are going to receive as revenue and therefore how much they'll be able to spend, you need to see it all," said Lapointe. "You have a question (about whether) this is a $9-billion budget or a $10-billion budget."

Lapointe said including all government revenues would increase transparency.

Finance Minister Graham Steele said the resources required to estimate revenues from all government entities outweigh the benefits.

"(This issue) has been around for at least 10 years," Steele said.

"It makes absolutely no difference to government decision making around budgeting. It makes no difference to regular Nova Scotians."

But Steele said the matter needs to be resolved, and he's determined to resolve it. ● ALEX BOUTILIER

NewPage creditor protection extended

A Nova Scotia judge has granted an idled paper mill in Cape Breton 10 more weeks of creditor protection as a court-appointed monitor tries to finalize a sale of the 50-year-old operation.

Judge John Murphy of the provincial Supreme Court agreed Wednesday to extend the protection for NewPage Port Hawkesbury until March 30. It was set to expire Friday.

Mathew Harris, a spokesman for court-appointed monitor Ernst & Young, says the time is needed to continue negotiations with Pacific West Commercial Corp.

mid-February.

Pacific West Commercial has said it intends to restart one of the mill's two paper machines if the sale is approved, but a number of hurdles remain.

It still has to complete talks with Nova Scotia Power on energy costs, and it must also negotiate deals with the union on a collective agreement and pension. Talks must also be held to discuss wood costs for fibre suppliers.

Harris said talks between Pacific West Commercial and Nova Scotia Power are underway, and if there is a deal on energy rates, it may have to be presented to the Nova Scotia Utility and Review Board for approval.

Archie MacLachlan, first vice-president of the Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union, said that talks haven't started between Pacific West and his union yet.

"We're on hold," he said. "We're anticipating they will start to talk with us shortly." THE CANADIAN PRESS

An outspoken Kim spills the beans

► A rare view of North Korea's ruling family? Copies of journalist Yoji Gomi's new book go on sale in Tokyo Wednesday.

► Does new book expose North Korean family discord?

The eldest son of North Korea's late leader Kim Jong-il appears to have exposed a rare public sign of discord in the secretive family that has ruled the country for decades.

Kim Jong-nam is quoted as dishing the dirt on his young half-brother — the new ruler — and on the regime itself.

A new book claims Kim Jong-nam believes the impoverished regime is in danger of collapse and that his half-brother, chosen to lead, is merely a figurehead.

The book by Tokyo-based journalist Yoji Gomi went on sale Wednesday.

Titled My Father, Kim Jong-il And Me, it drew immediate attention as a rare view into the family.

"Jong-un will just be a figurehead," the book quotes Kim Jong-nam as saying.

It claims he said the collapse of North Korea's economy is likely unless it initiates reforms, which could also bring it down.

"Without reforms and liberalization, the collapse of the economy is within sight," he is quoted as saying. "But reforms and opening up could also invite dangers."

Gomi claims he exchanged 150 emails and spent seven hours interviewing Kim Jong-nam, who was seen as a possible successor until he fell out of favour with Kim Jong-il.

Musician on cruise ship died for his beloved violin

A Hungarian musician died in the Costa Concordia cruise-ship disaster because he tried to retrieve his beloved violin from his cabin.

Violinist Sandor Feher, 38, had been working as an entertainer on the ill-fated liner, which slammed into a reef off the tiny Italian island of Giglio.

Jozsef Balog, a pianist working with Feher, said Feher was wearing a lifejacket when he decided to return to his cabin to get his violin.

Before that, Balog said, Feher helped put lifejackets on several crying children.

He was last seen on deck en route to the area where he was supposed to board a lifeboat.

Feher's body was found inside the wreck and identified by his mother, according to Hungary's foreign ministry.

TORIES' NOSES MAY BE A LITTLE OUT OF JOINT

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

The Liberal Party has gone to pot — and I like it.

The Grits, their popularity up in smoke, have decided to nip the problem in the bud by legalizing marijuana.

There. Now that I've got every marijuana pun out of the way, I can say that the Liberals' recent decision to add pot decriminalization to its platform is a rare instance when political expediency collides with common sense.

Yeah, the Liberals are Canada's longest-running situation comedy, and need to do something to win back their dwindling audience. But if that desperation leads to an actual common-sense revolution where the War on Drugs is seen as Reefer Madness, then smoke 'em if you got 'em, because I'm in.

I don't even like pot — the smell makes me queasy — but I know the decades-long battle to teach kids about the dangers of drugs is a colossal failure. How? Because I was a kid.

When I was young, all the Nancy Reagan, very-special-Blossom, this-is-your-brain-on-drugs propaganda led me to believe that smoking a joint was on par, health-wise, with enjoying a glass of anti-freeze.

Then I got to junior high and noted with interest that pot-smoking classmates appeared to be fine, save for an apparent inability to comb their hair.

At this point the War on Drugs was useless, because I no longer trusted anything else I had "learned." To this day I have no idea what the relative danger of, say, cocaine actually is. (If it were as dangerous as I was told, you'd notice the crowd thinning over the course of the Oscars.)

Drug education is a lot like those sex-ed classes where they never let on that sex might feel as good as a satisfying sneeze. As you watch a different teacher each year awkwardly describe sex as if it were Basic Tent Assembly, it finally dawns on you: "They're holding back on something amazing."

With both sex and drugs, the powers-that-be are withholding the full truth from kids when they need adults' guidance most. That's nothing short of irresponsible.

So, if any kids are reading this, tell your friends: Criminal charges aside, pot looks kind of fun.

I've seen angry, puking, bawling alcohol drinkers pretty much every week of my life, but in my experience the predominant symptom among pot smokers is a good-natured sleepiness. Do we really need the government's War on Naps?

And let's not forget that the Conservatives are planning to make our marijuana laws even tougher. On the slim chance that they ask you if you agree with their approach, remember your training, kids.

Just say no.

galactic movies, Lights focused on bringing it back to earth for her sophomore album.

"The music on my first album was perfect and in its place," she says.

"The new record turns that on its end and shows the underbelly and the grittiness."

With Siberia, which dropped back in October, Lights loosened the reigns opening up the studio to collaborations with Toronto-based electronica band Holy F-ck and rapper Shad.

"Once I got the chance to get my 'perfect' album out of my system, I wanted to make things sound a little bit raw," Lights says, recalling her years of making recordings in her basement.

"You get tired of hearing everything so perfect and you want to hear a little life in it again."

With elements of dub-step and hip-hop mixed with the innocent nature of Lights' voice, Siberia proves Lights continues to carve her own path.

"After spending time on the road and building confidence with my first album, I'm able to bring out something new and exciting in my craft," he says.

"Maybe that'll be something else in the next album."

Buffy's balancing act

► Sarah Michelle Gellar talks about returning to work after being a stay-at-home mom for two years, and how TV roles suit her lifestyle

Sarah Michelle Gellar made her name in television — with seven seasons of Buffy the Vampire Slayer — before heading to film and then bowing out of entertainment entirely to start a family. Now she's back on small screen with Ringer, and it's a move she's been considering for some time.

"I realized at a certain point that you have to dip your feet back in or it gets really scary," she says. "The longer you wait to go back in the harder I think it gets, just emotionally to go back. I hear stories from people that go back to work when their children are younger and they think that transition's then a little bit easier because it's all they've ever known, but I have known being at home for two years — almost two years — that it gets harder when you don't quite understand how it's all going to work, how you manage both lives."

Gellar explains that the idea of taking film jobs and heading off to locations was no longer an option for her. "I have a young child and I took time off when she was born, and that was the first time pretty much in my entire life that I had taken time off and I couldn't believe how happy I was and how satisfied that I was," says Gellar, who has a daughter with husband Freddie Prinze Jr. "Being a parent is so important to me, and I just couldn't be the parent that goes from country to country and leaves their child or schleps their child. It just wasn't the life that I wanted for my family." Gellar is quick to add, though that she's not judging or criticizing any other actress' parenting decisions.

On Ringer, Gellar pulls double duty as twin sisters Bridget — a recovering addict and ex-stripper — and

Gellar's a Two-hard

► "I have not seen the Twilight films. I read the books and I loved them. I thought they were great and it really surprised me because I thought, 'Vampire story, like ... OK,' but I loved it," says Gellar.

Siobhan, a wealthy socialite who goes missing after going overboard on a boat trip. Plenty of complications ensue as Bridget poses as Siobhan while on the run from the mob.

Of course, the other major draw of television brings Gellar back to being a parent. "I realized, 'Wait a second, I can be somewhere the entire year, I can [be there] when I need to take my child for the first day of school,'" she says.

"Two weeks ago, my daughter was very sick and I got to go home and be with her and we were able to work around it so that I could be there when she needed me.

"As soon as she was getting better I could come back, and that's just not a lifestyle that's really offered anywhere else."

A new view on Chelsea

► Chelsea Handler's new sitcom has her playing her sister

In Are You There, Chelsea? — the new sitcom based on Chelsea Handler's best-selling books — Laura Prepon plays Chelsea Handler and Chelsea Handler plays her sister Sloan. In real life, she isn't actually named Sloan — but that was changed, the comedian says, "for legal reasons, so that my own family can't sue me." Got that?

"I've been living this life for a long time, and I'm over myself. And it's a pleasure to play my sister, because everything I've been accusing her of my whole life, I can now re-enact before her eyes. She's thrilled, surprisingly," Handler said while promoting the sitcom at the Television Critics Association press tour in Pasadena, Calif., last week. "But, yeah. It's a lot more fun for me to play her than it would be to play myself. It's a lot more challenging anyway."

"Challenging" is a good word to describe the sitcom and its place on broadcast television — like most of Handler's material, the pilot is heavy on raunchy sex jokes and references to drinking.

The title of the show, in fact, used to be Are You There,odka? "Well, some people like tequila, you know. Some people like beer. Not everybody likes vodka," Prepon joked about the title change. "We don't want to discriminate," Handler added, then more seriously said, "We just thought Are You There, Chelsea? is a really kind of play on 'Am I there? What am I thinking?'"

That's exactly what Chelsea asks herself in the pilot, which opens with the character getting a DUI and realizing she's got to make some changes in her life.

"You realize there are some consequences to things that you do," Prepon said. "[Chelsea] is ballsy and brash and not PC, and people are gonna love that about her, because I think that people relate to flawed characters."

How real-to-life is Chelsea?

"I was probably angrier than she is in the show, which we thought wasn't palatable," Handler said of sitcom's Chelsea. "I went through my 20s in a way that not a lot of people do. I kind of barreled through them with no rhyme or reason or repercussions for anything. And there's definitely an essence of that."

OK there Marky Mark, calm down

► Wahlberg claims he would have landed 9-11 plane, if he were on flight

It looks like Mark Wahlberg has spent a little too much time talking tough on movie sets. In an interview with Men's Journal, the actor claims that if he was onboard a hijacked plane on Sept. 11, things would have ended differently.

(Before we get started, some fun facts about Mark Wahlberg: He's 5-8 and doesn't have a pilot's license.)

"If I was on that plane with my kids, it wouldn't have went down like it did," says the actor, who had purchased a ticket for one of the planes that crashed into the World Trade Center but changed his travel plans.

"There would have been a lot of blood in that first-class cabin and then me saying, 'OK, we're going to land somewhere safely, don't worry.'"

Oh, Mark. In the real world, saying heroic things in a Southie Boston accent doesn't magically kill the bad guys.

Depp's situation 'so sad'

While they've lived happily for more than a decade away from the spotlight in France, Johnny Depp and Vanessa Paradis' relationship is reportedly "all but officially finished," multiple sources tell People magazine.

A main reason for that, the sources say, is location, as the couple — parents to children Lily-Rose, 12, and Jack, 9 — has been residing in Los Angeles more and more often.

Some close to Depp and Paradis claim the couple has already split up.

Lindsay Lohan is facing yet another lawsuit, but chances are she's not too concerned about this one.

Thomas Green, a former Marine, is suing the actress for $300,000 for "unfair business practices," claiming that Lohan led him to believe she'd help him with an online business he wanted to start, according to TMZ.

The site refers to Green's filing as "12 pages of incomplete, incoherent and those with low incomes are at risk.

The World Health Organization has reported that eating five servings daily of fruit and vegetables helps in preventing diabetes, obesity, stroke and high blood pressure. Canadians, on average, fall just short of that.

"This study emphasizes the importance of eating sufficient fruits and vegetables," says lead author Mesbah Sharaf, a PhD candidate at Concordia. "It helps to identify the groups that need to be targeted for nutrition promotion policies aimed at encouraging fruit and vegetable consumption."

Sharaf and his team used a sample of 93,719 people from the 2007 Canadian Community Health Survey. They used statistical models to find out what lifestyle factors determine fruit and vegetable consumption.

The groups that need to work on healthier nutrition habits are those with a low income, those with low education, males, middle-aged people, singles, smokers, people with weak social interaction and adults who live in households with no children.

Quebec, which has a long history of farming, came out on top for fruit and vegetable consumption, compared to other provinces.

West vs. East

We're supposed to eat our fruits and veggies at least five times a day for best health. But do we? A new Canadian study shows eastern provinces lag behind.

- Canadian average 4.95 times a day
- Quebec 5.5 times a day
- British Columbia 4.9 times a day
- Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario 4.8 times a day
- Atlantic provinces 4.4 times a day

Less is more with gowns

STEPHANIE ORFORD
FOR METRO

The dress is everything, according to Veronica Di Santo-Abramowicz, managing partner for wedding dress atelier Ines Di Santo, based in Toronto. "If you feel great in it, that's all that matters."

Ines Di Santo makes dresses to suit many different tastes and shapes, explained Di Santo-Abramowicz.

She outlined a few looks to watch out for in the coming year.

Less is more: Wedding dresses in 2012 will be less over-the-top and more understated elegant.

"Something more inspired by the royal wedding," said Di Santo-Abramowicz — tailored and regal, but not ostentatious.

The mermaid: Trends in skirt shape will be diverse. Fitted to the knee and then flared, the mermaid dress shape is an Ines Di Santo favourite and creates a curve-hugging body shape, said Di Santo-Abramowicz.

Illusion necklines: "We're seeing a turn away from the strapless," she explained. Instead, brides are gravitating toward illusion necklines — strapless dresses that are connected over the shoulders by sheer tulle. There are many different illusion neckline shapes to play with, said Di Santo-Abramowicz. It also provides more support than a strapless gown, and may be considered more appropriate in some religious settings because of its coverage.

High-quality fabrics: Lace is a timeless component of the wedding dress, said Di Santo-Abramowicz, but other fabrics, like tulle, are making a comeback. An airy Italian silk tulle skirt is perfect for the bride who wants to make a statement but retain a classic silhouette, she said.

The full princess gown: Alternately, some 2012 brides-to-be are choosing ball gowns worthy of Cinderella — voluminous dresses with skirts that jut from the waist or hips.

For any dress, couture to second-hand, the most important thing is to stay true to your personality, said Di Santo-Abramowicz.

Tigers not out of it just yet

MATTHEW WUEST
@METRONEWS.CA

The Dalhousie Tigers are ringing in the new year with an improbable push for the Atlantic University Sport men's hockey playoffs.

The Tigers, who lost 3-2 in overtime to the Acadia Axemen on Wednesday at Memorial Arena, have gone 3-1-1 since Chris Donnelly took over as head coach on Jan. 3 and accumulated seven of a possible 10 points.

Suddenly, the team that lost an unthinkable 11 straight games heading into the holidays is just three points out of a playoff spot.

"We're looking at it as a new season," said Tigers captain David MacDonald.

"The atmosphere's different around here. Everyone's working together and we're coming together as a team, and that's what we need to keep doing. We knew coming into the second half that we weren't out of it."

The Tigers served notice on Wednesday they're no longer doormats, out-shooting second-place Acadia 33-25 in a fast-paced, hard-fought contest. The Axemen had 1-0 and 2-1 leads, but MacDonald scored both of the Tigers' goals on heavy one-timers to force overtime. After numerous Dal chances, it was Acadia's Andrew Clarke who got behind the defence to win it at 4:02 of extra time.

"We played really good against a top team," said MacDonald, who transferred from perennial contender Saint Mary's last summer for academic reasons. "It's a tough break at the end, but I like the way we're playing."

The Tigers are again without starting goalie Bobby Nadeau, who reinjured his groin after two January starts and is out indefinitely. Still, they're allowing almost three fewer goals per game — 2.6 opposed to 5.5 — in 2012.

Donnelly, a long-time assistant and associate coach with the Halifax Mooseheads, joined the Tigers last fall as an assistant to Pete Belliveau. He then took over when Belliveau stepped down after the disastrous 2-11-1 first half.

"Boys like him — he's an intense guy, so you don't want to make a mistake out there, but at the same time, he pushes you to play your game," MacDonald said. "He gets the boys fired up to play and that's what you like to see."

► The Huskies, who lead the season series 2-0 and are fourth overall, visit Memorial Arena on Friday at 7 p.m. before hosting them on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Halifax Forum.

Big weekend

The Dalhousie Tigers' season could come down to this weekend's home-and-home set with the cross-town Saint Mary's Huskies.

'Pep' puts Lightning game in perspective

As important as Thursday's matchup between the Halifax Rainmen and London Lightning is in terms of the National Basketball League of Canada standings, Josep 'Pep' Claros won't call it a "big game."

"It's not the final of the league or the world championship ... It's just a normal game, it counts the same," said the Rainmen head coach. "If we win it's only one more win. I don't see it as any different."

The Rainmen (14-5) are tied for second behind London (18-5) but have lost all three matchups with the Lightning. A win on Thursday would put them just a game out of top spot.

Halifax has 17 games remaining to London's 13.

With playoff success the Rainmen's ultimate goal, Claros is keeping it in perspective.

"I understand for the crowd and the team it's good (to beat them) because we've lost three games against them," he said. "But we can lose six games against them (in the regular season) and still beat them 3-0 in the playoffs."

Tip-off is 8 p.m. at the John Labatt Centre in London, Ont. ● METRO

MLS club invests in Halifax standout

Major League Soccer's Vancouver Whitecaps added Halifax's Liam Elbourne to their residency program on Wednesday.

Elbourne, a 16-year-old mid-fielder, is a provincial team standout who won the Golden Boot award as top scorer at last year's Canadian under-15 championship and saw time in the EastLink Premiership with Halifax City.

He was one of four players added to the residency, a full-time, fully-funded development program designed to groom players for MLS. ● METRO

Raonic moves on to 3rd round

Milos Raonic reached the third round of the Australian Open for the second straight year as the 23rd-seed Canadian beat Germany's Philipp Petzschner 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 on Thursday.

The 21-year-old from Thornhill, Ont. struggled to close out the win in the same venue where he first began his surge to the ATP top-25.

Raonic was frustrated against the 63rd-ranked Petzschner. As he tried to serve out the victory leading 5-4 in the fourth set, a wide line call drew Raonic's ire. He went on to lose the game.

But Raonic bounced back to break, 6-5 and fired an ace to save a break point in the 12th game. Raonic fought through to finally closed Petzschner after nearly three hours.

MAINTENANCE AND MINOR IMPROVEMENT SERVICES ON MARRIED MILITARY QUARTERS AT 14 WING GREENWOOD, NOVA SCOTIA

As a Special Operating Agency of the Department of National Defence (DND), the Canadian Forces Housing Agency (CFHA) is responsible for managing DND family housing, including the provision of maintenance and minor improvement services.

Defence Construction Canada (DCC), on behalf of the CFHA is calling for the submission of tenders for maintenance and minor improvement work on family housing units at 14 Wing Greenwood, Nova Scotia. The work will be done under Standing Offers (SO) on an "as requested" basis. The SOs will be in place from April 1, 2012 to March 31, 2014 (two years), with an option to extend for two additional one-year periods.

SOs will be established for maintenance and minor improvement work in the following trades: tile, resilient sheet flooring and carpet, carpentry, roofing, plumbing, electrical, hardwood floors, cleaning, painting, concrete and asphalt, grass cutting, landscaping and tree service, pest control, snow removal, and heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC). Firms that consider themselves qualified to provide residential housing maintenance and minor improvement services, are invited to contact DCC at Tel: (902)765-1494 ext. 5436 to obtain the list of work packages.

Those wishing to obtain the tender documents for providing any of the packaged residential housing maintenance and minor improvement services must place an order with MERX by logging on their website: www.merx.com or by calling 1 (800) 964-MERX (6379).

THE TENDER DOCUMENTS WILL BE AVAILABLE ONLY THROUGH MERX DISTRIBUTION.

The tender closing date is: February 7, 2012 for all packaged services projects
The tender closing time is: 14:00 hours, local time, for all packaged services projects
Sealed tenders will be received at the following location:

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20

There is a luck factor working in your favour at the moment, but you still have to work hard.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21

Start making new career plans today. Get ahead and make sure you stay ahead.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21

The planets are very much on your side at the moment, so don't be afraid to take a few risks.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22

Someone may sound sincere but according to the planets, he or she is trying to trick you into believing something that is simply not true.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23

Partners may seem more dominant than usual today, but the only power they have over you is the power you give them.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22

If you want to be on top of your game today, a positive mental attitude is an absolute must.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

This is potentially a great time of the year for you but you've got to be way more upbeat.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22

If you poke your nose where it is not wanted today, you run the risk of losing a friend's support.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21

The Sun soon moves into one of the better areas of your chart and money worries won't be a burden.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20

If you have been looking to end an association that has become a bit of a burden, now is the time.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18

Life's pace is about to pick up on every front, but that's OK because you have been operating well below capacity in recent weeks.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

There's danger in deciding to take the easy way out of a dilemma. Don't do it. SALLY BROMPTON
